

ANCHORED SOULS

real hope for real life

Daily Prayer for Moms

Lord,

You are perfect and I am not. You are good and I am tainted by the world and sin. You are kind and loving, and I am sometimes unkind, and I lack unconditional love. You are selfless, and I am often filled with selfishness. You are full of grace, and I need the full measure of Your grace today.

I confess that I am insufficient, but I know You are complete. You are more than enough.

Even though I am flawed, in Your infinite wisdom and sovereignty, You placed this child in my life. You gave this most precious gift to me out of the greatness of Your love. You formed and made him--every stitch and fiber of his being. Your love for him is like a tidal wave, enveloping His being, causing Him to drink in a continuous portion of Your grace.

I need your perfection, your goodness and kindness, Your sacrificial love. I need Your selfless nature and Your abundant grace to help me as I care for this most special one today.

You know her weaknesses and frailties. You know her strengths and gifts. You know her abilities and her inabilities. You and You alone know her from the inside out.

So, I am asking You to fill in the gaps. Fill in the gaps and anchor me to You. Empower me to be the mother he needs today. Keep me from drifting into the deep waters of fear, anxiety, isolation, and hopelessness. Steer me to Your side and cause me and my precious child to walk on water with You today. In the mighty name of Jesus, my Anchor and hers, amen.

* All pronouns are masculine. Change to feminine when praying for your precious girl.

Anchored Souls is a non-profit ministry providing hope and encouragement to moms who have children with disabilities

anchoredsouls.org